McKinley Club Decides to be Present.

For the Four or Five Cars in Which the Delegation Will Travel-Good Terms

The McKinley club will go to the St. Louis convention, and so decided at

The committee appointed to investigate expenses and accommodations made its report and the club was pleased. The company promised a rate of from $17.25 to $21.25 according to the number, and it is believed that a sufficient number of Governor Mc-Kinley's friends in the city can be found to secure the lower rate. If four sleepers can be filled, the railroad will make it a special train with an extra car thrown in for smokers. Any number less than that can only bring from the company the promise that train, and the trip made on schedule time. It is believed that the required 200 men can be secured in the county, and books will be opened in a few days with that end in view. There is an enthusiastic feeling in the city. and it is thought that East Liverpool will show up well when the train pulls out. A plan has been proposed for the decoration of the cars, which will make them an attraction while they are in St. Louis. It is proposed to have the sides decorated with ware from every pottery in town. Big part of the city could be reached banners will tell the name of the city and the purpose of the delegation, while specimens of Liverpool ware will show to the inspecting thousands just what we do here. If this idea can be carried out the city will be given its greatest advertisement, and many who think nothing but crocks

In the legislature yesterday Representative Ashford, of this country, introduced a bill providing for the inspection of public and private hospitals, convents, asylums, schools, sectarian seminaries, etc., by the county commissioners twice each year and giving authority to grand juries and boards of health to make inspections at will. The result of the commissioners' inspection shall be published in the daily papers, and failure to do so shall be punishable by a fine of $100 to $500. A fine of the same amount and imprisonment for six months shall be passed upon anyone declining to permit such inspection.

She Was Seriously, Perhaps Fatally Burned Betore Help Could Arrive-Sad Accident to an Aged Lady Over the

Mrs. Lyons, an aged lady residing two miles from the river, in Hancock county, was seriously burned at her home yesterday afternoon.

The lady was seated in front of an open fireplace in a rocking chair and was slowly swaying to and fro, when her dress touched the grate and caught fire. In a moment the flame ran up along her skirt, and she began to shriek for help. There chanced to be no one in the room, and Mrs. Lyon, being an old woman and almost paralvzed with fright, could do nothing to protect herself from the destroying element. She almost fainted, but after a minute or two of loud screaming, attracted the attention of others the house, who hastened to her assistance. The fire was put out, and a physician summoned, who found the lady had been badly burned. She was also suffering from the effects of the shock, and it was feared she could not recover. The New Treaty Virtually Annexes Turkey to Russia.

FRANCE LIKELY IN THE ALLIANCE.

It Will Result In an Immediate Settletion-Russia Can Now Occupy Armenia. Hitt and Draper Give Opinions.

London, Jan. 24.—The treaty reported to have been perfected between Russia and Turkey, if true, is the most important diplomatic event which has occurred in the past 50 years. It means that Russia can move her armies across control the Mediterranean, and that means more than anyone can now fore-

A coalition between Russia and Turkey such as that indicated means that England will have her hands full of business on her own continent without interfering in American affairs. It looks as if Russia had at last succeeded in getting a foothold on the Mediterranean, and is on the eve of virtually annexing Turkey to her dominions.

news comes in a dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette from Constantinople saying that an offensive and defensive alliance has been concluded between Russia and Turkey. The Pall Mall Gazette correspondent adds that the treaty was signed at Constantinople and that the ratifications were exchanged at St. Petersburg between Areja Pasha and the czar. The basis of the treaty is declared to be on the lines of the Umkiarskelli agreement of 1833, by which Tur-key agreed, in the event of Russia going to war, to close the Dardanelles to warships of all nations, which was abandoned at that time owing to the refusal of the powers to recognize it.

The Pall Mall Gazette correspondent also says that the French ambassador, M. Cambon, has been conferring with the sultan and that it is probable France will be included in the new alliance. will be included in the new alliance.

The treaty between Russia and Tur-key may open the way to a solution of the Armenian question, as under it, Russia can occupy Armenia.

Commenting on its dispatch The Pall

Mall Gazette says:
"We regard the news as true, and the result of the treaty is that the Dardenelles is the southern outpost of Russia, and Turkey is Russia's vassal. We presume the British government will pro-test against the treaty for all it is worth. The information is plainly of the very gravest importance. The first information reached us some days ago, but we withheld it till the arrival of strong confirmation, which we have received. This brings Russia into the Mediterranean with a vengeance, and may necessitate the strengthening of our fleet in those waters. Politically, the effect will be

"The treaty means that Turkey has realized her own impotence against dis-orders, both from within and without, and has decided to throw herself for safety into the arms of Russia. She is now Russia's vassal and Russia is entitled to dispatch troops to any part of the sultan's dominions whenever there is the least breach of disorder—and when is there not?

"We presume the arrangement will give the keenest satisfaction to the anglo-Armenian section of our people. With them lies the chief blame for the complete alienation of Turkey, though it must be owned that it has been sedulously fostered by a long term of weak policy at Constantinople.

A Washington special says: The dispatch was read with great surprise by members o the house committee on foreign affairs. Mr. Hitt was inclined to doubt the news. He said, however, that if Russia signed such a treaty she must have cone so with full knowledge of all the consequences that must fol-low. The treaty of Berlin, which rethat Russia can move her armies across the Turkish border. Such a treaty will result in the immediate settlement of the Armenian question, and if France has also entered into the alliance, as appears probable, the result will be that the fleet of these two countries will virtually must provoke the gravest imaginable consequences.

Mr. Draper of Massachusetts said that in his recent trip abroad the prevailing feeling against Great Britain because of what the other powers regarded as her land-grabbing policy was everywhere so strongly manifested that no coalition which left her out could be entirely a surprise

The New Treaty Virtually Annexes Turkey to Russia.

It Will Result In an Immediate Settlement of the Vexatious Armenian Question-Russia Can Now Occupy Armenia. Hitt and Draper Give Opinions.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The treaty reported to have been perfected between Russia and Turkey, if true, is the most important diplomatic event which has occurred in the past 50 years. It means that Russia can move her armies across the Turkish border. Such a treaty will result in the immediate settlement of the control the Mediterranean, and that means more than anyone can now fore-

A coalition between Russia and Turkey such as that indicated means that England will have her hands full of business on her own continent without interfering in American affairs. It looks as if Russia had at last succeeded in getting a foothold on the Mediterra-nean, and is on the eve of virtually annexing Turkey to her dominions.

The news comes in a dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette from Constantinople saying that an offensive and defensive alliance has been concluded between Russia and Turkey. The Pall Mall Gazette correspondent adds that the treaty was signed at Coustantinople and that the retifications were appeared as Xthe ratifications were exchanged at St. Petersburg between Areja Pasha and the czar. The basis of the treaty is declared to be on the lines of the Umkiarskelli agreement of 1838, by which Turkey agreed, in the event of Russia going to war, to close the Dardanelles to warships of all nations, which was aban-doned at that time owing to the refusal of the powers to recognize it.

The Pall Mall Gazette correspondent also says that the French ambassador, M. Cambon, has been conferring with the sultan and that it is probable France will be included in the new alliance.
The treaty between Russia and Turkey may open the way to a solution of the Armenian question, as under it, Russia can occupy Armenia. Commenting on its dispatch The Pall

Mall Gazette says:
"We regard the news as true, and the result of the treaty is that the Darden-elles is the southern outpost of Russia, and Turkey is Russia's vassal. We pre-sume the British government will pro-tost against the treaty for all it is worth. The information is plainly of the very sion, 50 cents.

the Washington Correspondent of the London Times Says the United States Will Knock the Caracas Statute In the Bead-Wolcott Congratulated.

LONDON, Jan. 24.-The Chronicle understands that Sir Frederick Pollack, THE BIGGER YOUR BARGAINS corpus professor of jurisprudence at the University of Oxford, has been entrusted with the compiling of the British case in its legal aspects on the Venezuela boundary.

"We are sure," says the Chronicle, "that Lord Salisbury and Mr. Chamberlain will put no obstacle in the way of a Venezueia settlement."

The Berlin correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that he is assured, on good authority, that the dispute will be congratulations to Senator Wolcott over his speech in the senate opposing President Cleveland's attitude on the Monroe

A dispatch to The Times from its correspondent, George W. Smalley, from Washington with reference to the socalled jingo argument that the Venezue lans will never consent to the repeal of the statute which forbids the reopening of negotiations with Great Britain, says There is no public opinion in Venezuela which will survive the first plain notice from the United States that the republic must choose between accepting her advice and arranging as best she can unaided with Great Britain. It will never be necessary to put it so bluntly as that. The advice has been given and will, if necessary, be repeated and pressed. America's will will prevail or Venezuela must seek a champion elsewhere. I am not speaking from conjecture or hearsay as to the presence of that determination in Washington. The Caracas statute will be seen to shrivel into nothing.

The Times correspondent continues: At the same time if Lord Salisbury is willing to smooth the way to a resump-tion of relations with Venezuela it would be a welcome step. The hour of com-promise and conciliation and frank conession on important points of detail or diplomatic etiquette has struck here.
There is every disposition to meet England half way. Will she refuse to come the other half? The Washington government sets most store by a suggestion of a direct settlement, but if that is barred by any unforseen obstacle, it is held that England may now ignore the previous controversy and make a fresh and original proposal for arbitration as if nothing had ever happened. This yiew, I believe, has only prevailed within the last few days, and it is worth considertion in London because it is considered hopefully here. In an editorial commenting on the foregoing, The Times says: There is a sincere desire here to arrive at a friendly agreement with Venezuela so as to re move all cause of controversy with the United States. Obviously England is unable to make any direct proposals to Venezuela till the obstacle of the Caracas statute has been removed. But though no formal communications have been exchanged, the attitude of our government is perfectly well known, and a basis for negotiations is provided in our line as a limit and only to exclude the settled districts from consideration. It a proposal to this effect were made by Venezuela or the United States on their behalf, a settlement would immediately come into view. A dispatch to The Times from its correspondent, George W. Smalley, from Washington with reference to the socalled jingo argument that the Venezue-lans will never consent to the repeal of the statute which forbids the reopening f negotiations with Great Britain, says There is no public opinion in Venezuela which will survive the first plain notice from the United States that the republic must choose between accepting her advice and arranging as best she can unaided with Great Britain. It will never be necessary to put it so bluntly as that.

The advice has been given and will, if necessary, be repeated and pressed. America's will will prevail or Venezuela must seek a champion elsewhere. I am not speaking from conjecture or hearsay as to the presence of that determination in Washington. The Caracas statute will be seen to shrivel into nothing.

The Times correspondent continues: At the same time if Lord Salisbury is willing to smooth the way to a resumption of relations with Venezuela it would be a welcome step. The hour of com-promise and conciliation and frank conssion on important points of detail or diplomatic etiquette has struck here.
There is every disposition to meet England half way. Will she refuse to come the other half? The Washington government sets most store by a suggestion of a direct settlement, but if that is barred by any unforseen obstacle, it is held that England may now ignore the previous controversy and make a fresh and original proposal for arbitration as if nothing had ever happened. This view, I believe, has only prevailed within the last few days, and it is worth considertion in London because it is considered hopefully here.

In an editorial commenting on the foregoing, The Times says: There is a sincere desire here to arrive at a friendly agreement with Venezuela so as to re ve all cause of controversy with the United States. Obviously England is unable to make any direct proposals to Venezuela till the obstacle of the Caracas statute has been removed. But though no formal communications have been exchanged, the attitude of our government is perfectly well known, and a basis for negotiations is provided in our willingness to discard the Schomburge line as a limit and only to exclude the settled districts from consideration. If a proposal to this effect were made by ezuela or the United States on their behalf, a settlement would immediately come into view. A door has been open ever since Lord Salisbury's dispatch to Secretary Olney for a counter proposi-

TRUSTEES HAVE A SCHEME

If the City Will Pave to Anderson's Lane

The township trustees have a plan which may result in better country roads for this part of Ohio.

When the hard times came on and the strike so increased the number of destitute people in the city the trus keeping good condition and think they in quantity unless they are in debt, when they are empowered to make a derson's lane to Riverview cemetery the paving as wide as the street, but tees see no reason why it should not they see better roads for the county. They would extend the improvement to the township line, and there it township. In this way thorough in the county. would not have the roads all paved. but think a good system of piking would answer the same purpose. They feel that the financial condition at present will allow them to enter the plan without embarrassment, but the city must pave a road to the city line. Within five years, they think, the county can have a fine system of

In Memoriam.

Resolutions of condolance on the death of Comrade James Mear, who departed this life Jan. 15, 1896.

In the mysterious ways of an all wise providence, dealing with the children of men, it is made our painful duty to announce to General Lyon post No. 44, Grand Army of the Repub lic, that Comrade James Mear departed this life January the 15th, 1896, at the age of 77 years. One who left the peaceful pursuits of daily life to obey the call of his adopted country in that dark hour, when its very life was threatened by the slave power, went forth to do battle for the land he loved so well, and for the preserva-
